Steve and his wife, Cheryl, have been married for 33 years, reside in Atlanta, Georgia and have 4 grown children. I became interested in TCWM last year as Pete Anderson educated me on the mission and need in Africa for biblical education to the mass of people who are becoming Christians. The tremendous lack of trained leadership stunned me, and it seemed only logical that the gospel and truth would spread in a more effective manner through locally trained pastors and leaders. We became involved over past years in helping a young man from Burkina Faso as well as assisting another African man from Ghana with some of his church needs. They both have such pleasant spirits and solid as Christians. They, and the African people are now on my heart to help and TCWM's mission seems to hit right in the center of their need.

Keith subsequently moved to Fayetteville, NC and made Providence Presbyterian Church his church home where he was introduced to TCWM through Charlie King and Nancy Olson. Keith sought to serve on the board of TCWM to see the Gospel spread to all corners of God's creation while graciously serving those in need.
